Inspiring patriotic reels

BY MARK MATHEN VICTOR

EVER since Petronas unveiled its series of deeply patriotic and emotive Merdeka ads in the 1990s, it has become the norm for other organisations to follow suit in an attempt to burrow themselves deep in the national psyche.

The Petronas snippets set the bar extremely high with late director (cum storyteller extraordinaire) Yasmin Ahmad crafting a series of moving adverts that resonated deeply with Malaysians from all walks of life.

Here are three of the latest that attempt to capture the zeitgeist with some fine film craftsmanship.

How deep is your sense of community? Are you willing to support local tourism to boost the economy of small towns and islands? Are you prepared to explore the hidden gems of Malaysia instead of opting for popular international destinations?

One group of friends embarks on such a journey, discovering the profound impact of small acts of kindness in Etika's new web film Gelombang. In conjunction with Malaysia's national month, the heart-warming web film is set to inspire Malaysians to appreciate the power of their contributions to local communities.

Gelombang tells the story of four friends on an exciting girls' trip, in which a suggestion to visit Bali turns into a passionate plea by Amira to support local tourism by exploring the enchanting Pangkor Island instead. The decision would lead them on a journey of discovery and change.

The narrative unfolds as Amira and her friends enjoy a lively boat ride to Pangkor Island, captained by the affable boatman Yusof and his bright-eyed daughter Rina. Upon arrival, Amira hands a RM50 note to Yusof for his services, unaware that this small gesture will set off a chain

Etiqua's sustainability efforts focus on education and engagement

Etiqua's sustainability efforts focus on education and engagement

In 2022, Etiqua's focus shifted from traditional corporate social responsibility plans.

For insurers looking to emulate a clear path for their environmental, social, and governance (ESG): start with governance, spread awareness, innovate boldly, and persist through challenges, urged Malaysia-based Etiqua Insurance & Takaful.

Chris Eng, the company's Head of Sustainability, offered invaluable insights from their ongoing journey when he spoke at the Insurance Asia Forum in Kuala Lumpur last June.

Eng's presentation at this industry conference in Malaysia highlighted the challenges and triumphs experienced by Etiqua, providing a roadmap for other financial institutions aiming to enhance their sustainability efforts.

Sharing Etiqua's approach to sustainability, he said the firm first had to establish robust governance structures.

"We started with setting the governance," Eng told forum participants. "Many of us in financial institutions understand the importance of governance and having an audit trail."

This initial phase involved forming a dedicated committee to oversee sustainability initiatives, ensuring that progress was meticulously documented and auditable. This approach not only fostered internal accountability but also facilitated smoother audits and regulatory compliance.

The next step in Etiqua's journey was to spread awareness and ensure alignment across the organisation.

Eng emphasised the importance of clarity and consensus. "My CEO says that what sustainability means to one person may not mean the same to another," he said.

So, Etiqua undertook a comprehensive internal education campaign, clarifying the company's sustainability goals and the significance of ESG considerations in their operations.

A critical aspect of this phase was understanding and setting targets for Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions, as well as evaluating the sustainability of their investment portfolio. "We needed to understand our Scope 1, Scope 2, and where our investment portfolio stood in terms of sustainability," Eng recalled.

This groundwork laid the foundation for more ambitious sustainability initiatives.

By 2022, Etiqua's focus shifted from traditional corporate social responsibility (CSR) activities to developing innovative insurance products that promote sustainability.

Eng detailed how they ventured into new areas such as solar panel insurance and microinsurance, partnering with entities like the Employees Provident Fund (EPF) and the Ministry for Positive Living.

"We crafted products that would make a difference," Eng noted, highlighting their proactive approach to integrating sustainability into their core business operations.

Going on record

One of the significant milestones for Etiqua in 2023 was the publication of its sustainability report. Eng recounted the challenges faced during this process, particularly the need to engage with stakeholders and shareholders early.

"The key lesson we learned from that was the importance of syndicating with your stakeholders and shareholders," Eng said. This involved extensive consultations with Maybank Group's sustainability team to ensure the report aligned with broader corporate goals.

Eng underscored the importance of transparency and early engagement. "Syndicate early and fast, make it clear why you are embarking on whatever sustainability initiative you want to pursue, and hopefully, you will get support from HQ, which will expedite the process," he advised.

This strategy not only facilitated the smooth publication of the report but also strengthened internal and external buy-in for their sustainability initiatives, he said.

From investments to underwriting

Etiqua's sustainability journey has not been without its challenges, particularly in the realm of investments.

Discussing the complexities of assessing ESG risks in their equity and bond portfolios, Eng said: "It's easy to do; Bursa Malaysia requires a sustainability report from all listed companies now."

Still, evaluating the ESG aspects of fixed-income investments proved more challenging due to the nuanced data involved.

Despite these hurdles, Etiqua persisted, extending its ESG assessment framework to its underwriting portfolio in 2024. Eng highlighted the importance of resilience and a willingness to tackle difficult tasks, enjoining the audience to "be resilient, keep moving forward, [and] tackle the difficult tasks once you've handled the quick wins."

Lessons and future direction

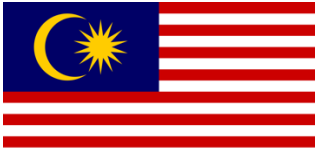

Eng concluded his presentation with key takeaways from Etiqua's sustainability journey. He emphasised the necessity of continuous improvement and adaptation: "Remember, syndicate early, syndicate with your shareholders," He also highlighted the importance of resilience, advising peers to "keep moving forward, don't stop at the quick wins, go down into the trenches and do the dirty work."

Eng's insights offer a practical guide for financial institutions navigating the complex landscape of sustainability.

By establishing robust governance, engaging stakeholders, innovating in product offerings, and tackling complex challenges head-on, companies can make significant strides in their ESG journeys. As Eng aptly put it, "The journey is ongoing, and the commitment to sustainability must be unwavering."

Etiqua expects local equity, bond investments to drive profitability in 2024

BY CHERYL POO

Malayan Banking Bhd's (KL:MAYBANK) (Maybank) insurance and takaful arm Etiqua International Holdings Sdn Bhd (EIH) expects better traction in its investment portfolios in the second half amid optimism in the local capital markets and anticipation of a lower yield curve should the US Federal Reserve initiate a 25 basis-point cut in interest rates in September, as widely predicted.

"Our ringgit-based portfolios will continue to rely on domestic equity and bond investments to drive profitability in 2024," Etiqua chief investment officer Lee Yuen Kuen tells The Edge. Lee was appointed to the position on Jan 8 this year, replacing Norlia Mat Yusoff, who oversaw the investment portfolios as group chief investment officer of Maybank Asean Holdings Bhd. Maybank's insurance and takaful subsidiaries in Malaysia and Singapore are parked under Maybank Asean, in which the banking group owns a 69.05% stake through EIH. Brussels-based insurer Ageas Insurance International NV owns the remaining 30.95% of Maybank Asean.

Etiqua Group (Etiqua) operates in Malaysia, Singapore, the Philippines, Indonesia and Cambodia, with more than 90% of its Malaysian operations' investment portfolios being local-centric with ringgit-based assets and less than 10% invested overseas.

The vibrancy in the equity markets is very much welcomed by Etiqua, which told The Edge last year that it had hoped for an uplift from the equity markets but it did not materialise as the markets were struggling to cope with the effects of the Russia-Ukraine war and an economic environment of high inflation and increasing interest rates.

However, things have taken a turn for the better. Year to date, the FBM KLCI rose 125% to peak at 1,636.55 points on July 19 from 1,454.66 points on Dec 29 last year. The benchmark index closed lower at 1,622.19 points last Wednesday (July 31) as investors reacted to the tumbling of big technology stocks on Wall Street amid criticism that they had grown too expensive and valuations had run too high ahead of profits.

With better investment opportunities abounding this year, Etiqua has increased its equity exposure this year to a high single-digit percentage from about 5% previously as it "selectively rebalances between sectors such as property, construction, technology and financial to capture pockets of trading opportunities" on Bursa Malaysia.

"We continue to favour the construction sector due to accelerating public and private job flows, and the property sector because of strong demand in established locations. The utility sector is expected to benefit from growth under Malaysia's National Energy Transition Roadmap programme, while the technology sector should see gains from a recovery in the semiconductor space and government support through the National Semiconductor Strategy," says Lee, admitting that the glove sector disappointed in the first half largely due to "below-expectation earnings results".

"Besides avoiding sin stocks, we are open to investment opportunities in other sectors and increasingly incorporating environmental, social and governance factors into our investment assessments," he adds.

If there should be any concerns about the local bond and equity markets amid the ongoing subsidy rationalisation measures, Lee assures that Etiqua will remain invested with the view that the measures will benefit the country's economic structure in the longer term, helping to narrow the fiscal deficit and boosting foreign investors' confidence in the local capital markets.

"However, we are cautious about the potential near-term negative impact on local consumer and corporate sentiment, and have adjusted our allocation accordingly, particularly in sectors that might be impacted, such as consumer and auto," he says.

Where Etiqua's overseas investments are concerned, note that it has pulled out of China, where it had built up significant investments in recent years, after the portfolio was adversely impacted by the downturn in the Chinese property market.

"We have since zeroed out our exposure in this area and reallocated to higher-quality assets including both government and corporate investment-grade bonds in Asia-Pacific countries such as Japan, South Korea, Australia, and Singapore, taking into account prevailing market views and risk assessments. Additionally, we are constantly exploring better opportunities across various markets, including Asia, for our portfolio," Lee says.

Optimistic about fixed income yields

"We view fixed income investments favourably this year amid anticipation of a lower yield curve and more accommodative global monetary policies. Our fixed income funds have shown robust performance, consistently ranking in the top three among peers. With a strategically preferred duration to capitalise on the expected lower yield curve and potential rate cuts in developed economies, our proactive allocation strategy underscores our commitment to maximising returns while managing risk effectively," says Lee.

Lee: We continue to favour the construction sector due to accelerating public and private job flows, and the property sector because of strong demand in established locations

Etiqua concedes with broad views that the US elections and potential rate cuts will see markets poised for notable shifts in the second half. It expects investor sentiment to become more cautious due to concerns over a US-China-led global trade war post-election, although the continuation of the China-Plus-One strategy will likely benefit Asean economies as multinational corporations diversify their supply chains.

"For fixed income markets, the elections and potential rate cuts suggest a downward trend in yields, with investors favouring safe-haven securities amid policy uncertainty. Lower US yields could drive capital flows into emerging markets like Malaysia, reducing local bond yields and potentially strengthening the Malaysian ringgit, attracting further foreign investment," says Lee.

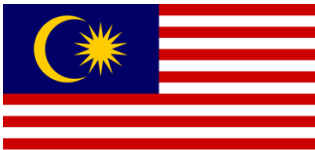

He believes that despite expectations that Bank Negara Malaysia will maintain the overnight policy rate at 3%, the combined effect of US rate cuts and election-induced uncertainty may result in a lower yield curve for Malaysia.

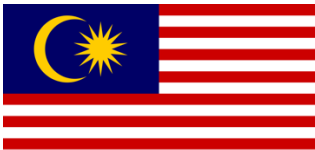

"Overall, these developments present both risks and opportunities for markets, particularly in Asean economies and emerging markets including Malaysia," he says.

"In 2022, part of our portfolio was impacted by the China property bond market. We have since zeroed out our exposure in this area and reallocated to higher quality assets including both government and corporate investment-grade bonds in Asia-Pacific countries such as Japan, South Korea, Australia and Singapore," says Lee.

"In recent months, my primary focus has been on leveraging the robust foundation established by our former CIO and the well-defined investment process developed over the years. We have built on this solid foundation by continually fostering a disciplined investment culture that rigorously identifies compelling risk-reward opportunities through holding regular weekly meetings to discuss potential investments and utilising information technology to identify leading indicators that can further enhance our investment decision process.

"Additionally, we believe that effectively leveraging technologies such as coding and quant modelling in our investment strategies is a critical differentiator. For instance, we have been developing new quant models with multiple factors tailored to our local equity market to deliver consistent results. These technological advancements not only enhance our decision-making processes but also help us stay ahead in a competitive market," adds Lee.

Singapore: Etiqa appointed as official fire insurance provider for HDB flats

 By AIR team | 19 Aug 2024

Singapore Property & Casualty

Etiqa Insurance Singapore (Etiqa Singapore) has been appointed as the official fire insurer for the Housing and Development Board's (HDB) Fire Insurance Scheme.

In a statement, Etiqa Singapore said, "This significant appointment marks a pivotal moment in Etiqa's commitment to safeguarding owners against financial losses arising from fire incidents in their HDB flat and ensuring their peace of mind."

The HDB is Singapore's public housing authority that builds subsidised homes.

Affordable Protection

With effect from 16 August 2024, Etiqa has been providing basic fire insurance coverage for all sold HDB flats. The insurance premium for a five-year term, which ranges from S$1.11 (84 US cents) to S$6.68 depending on flat type, ensures that fire insurance is affordable and accessible to HDB flat owners.

Existing HDB flat owners with a valid fire insurance policy that expires after 15 August 2024 will not be affected by the change in the appointed fire insurer.

"At Etiqa Insurance Singapore, we understand the importance of home security, especially in the face of unforeseen events like fires," said Mr Raymond Ong, CEO of Etiqa Singapore.

Extending Home Protection Beyond HDB Fire Insurance

The HDB Fire Insurance Scheme helps to alleviate the financial burden of repair works for flat owners due to fires. The HDB fire insurance will cover the cost of reinstating damaged internal structures, fixtures, and fittings provided by HDB and its approved developers, as well as cover the cost of repair works due to fires in adjoining properties and water damage from burst pipes.

For more comprehensive coverage, homeowners can consider additional home content insurance plans separately, because such policies can cover potential losses not included under the HDB Fire Insurance Scheme, such as flat contents, personal possessions, or renovations made to the HDB flats.

There are more than 1.1m HDB apartment units in Singapore.

Etiqua Insurance Singapore (Etiqua) has been appointed as the official fire insurer for the Housing and Development Board (HDB) Fire Insurance Scheme, which provides essential fire insurance coverage for all sold HDB flats.

This new role for Etiqua commenced on August 16, 2024.

Housing and Development Board Fire Insurance Scheme

The HDB Fire Insurance Scheme is designed to cover the costs of restoring internal structures and fixtures provided by HDB that are damaged by fire. It also includes coverage for repair work on adjacent properties and for water damage from burst pipes.

The insurance premiums for the scheme will vary from $1.11 to $6.68 for a five-year period, depending on the type of flat.

Current HDB flat owners with existing policies will continue to be covered by their current provider until the policy's expiration.

Etiqua Insurance Singapore as official insurer for HDB Fire Insurance Scheme

Raymond Ong, CEO of Etiqua Insurance Singapore, noted the importance of home security in the face of unforeseen events like fires.

"At Etiqua Insurance Singapore, we understand the importance of home security, especially in the face of unforeseen events like fires," he said.

He reiterated Etiqua's dedication to providing affordable fire insurance, ensuring that homeowners are financially protected against fire damage to the internal structures and fixtures provided by HDB.

"As the appointed insurer for the HDB Fire Insurance Scheme, we are committed to delivering affordable and comprehensive fire insurance coverage and ensuring Singaporean homeowners have the peace of mind they deserve," Ong said.

For broader protection, homeowners are encouraged to consider additional home content insurance policies, which can cover items not included under the HDB scheme, such as personal possessions and renovations.

Etiqua Insurance Singapore's 10th anniversary

The agreement with HDB comes on the heels of Etiqua's celebration of its 10th anniversary by participating in the NATAS Travel Fair 2024, which took place from August 16 to 18 at the Singapore Expo.

Etiqua offered special promotions at the event, including the chance to win Apple products valued at SG$2,350 and an extra 5% discount on all Travel Infinite insurance plans for those using Maybank cards.

Ong expressed that Etiqua's commitment to safeguarding Singaporeans during their travels remains strong, particularly given the rising occurrence of unexpected events during travel.

"Over the past decade, Etiqua has remained steadfast in our commitment to safeguarding Singaporeans during their travels. Given the rising frequency of unexpected events such as air turbulence, the necessity of comprehensive travel insurance cannot be overstated," he said.
